

Do you enjoy tabletop RPGs? Want to meet new people?

Participants aged 13-17 years are invited to join this popular group.

Where: The Autism Hub, Woolloongabba

Allies & Adventures (AaA) is a new role-playing based group for individuals on the autism spectrum. The program enables lovers of RPGs with the opportunity to build friendships and other social skills in a safe, structured and supportive environment.

Participants will be supported by experienced mentors to practice their social and communication skills while playing the universally-popular tabletop game, Dungeons & Dragons. They will learn to work as a team, including forming plans and problem-solving, engage in a variety of conversations, and above all, have an enjoyable time with their fellow role players. People who are new to RPGs are also welcome to attend.

There is a fee for this group. Please enquire for a quote.*
