

Service Overview

Positive Behaviour Guidance (PBG)

All People, All Places, All Spaces.

Autism Queensland (AQ) is proud to deliver the PBG service as part of the Queensland Government's Early Childhood Guidance Pilot Program. This fully-funded initiative supports early childhood educators and teachers to build skills, knowledge, and confidence in using positive behaviour strategies in their educational settings.

Every child has the right to feel safe, respected, valued and listened to. Educators must develop respectful and positive relationships with children in order to help them develop the skills and understandings they need to interact positively with their peers and others.

FREE, on-demand and accessible supports, resources and workshops—plus a dedicated educator phoneline for personalised guidance.

Our consultants will collaborate with you to:

- Create respectful, positive relationships that support children to develop self-reliance and self-esteem.
- Uphold each child's dignity and rights, helping them feel safe to share their opinions and express themselves.
- Use positive encouragement to foster confidence and meaningful interactions.
- Respect family and cultural values, as well as each child's age, development, and abilities, to support inclusive and empowering relationships.

Workshops

Workshops are scheduled across the year and delivered face-to-face or online. Additionally, customised sessions are available upon request (subject to scheduling). These workshops are a collaborative, professional learning opportunity.

Alongside an introduction to PBG, topics include: understanding behaviour, positive relationships, regulation, and strategies for success. Follow-up sessions are also available to expand on the foundational knowledge.

On-demand support & educator phoneline:

Educators and teachers can contact our team via phone or email for a targeted consultation or advice about a child's behaviour. Support is available 8:30am–3:30pm, Monday to Friday (excl. public holidays).

Resources:

In addition to on-demand support, our team can provide tailored resources to support educators bring theory into practice (including information papers, tip sheets, templates, how-to guides etc.).

Eligibility: Available statewide for staff working in regulated early childhood settings, sessional kindergartens, family day care, long day care, and outside school hours care.
